

PEATED MALT IRELAND CASK

KILLOWEN BONDED EXPERIMENTAL SERIES 10 YR OLD WHISKEY

MOURNE MOUNTAINS, IRELAND

Unlike the rest of our range with large gestures of cask influence, this cask opts for only a little smokiness and peat, mainly on the late palate and finish. At Killowen we understand that many whiskey drinkers prefer not to drink peated whiskeys and therefore this expression offers just a small peated kiss that will satisfy 'peat heads' while welcoming those 'Non-Peat-Heads' into the fold. The biggest challenge with this range is maintaining the very high standard of previous releases while making a very different expression. Thankfully the same successful and unique Killowen blend has been introduced to a very different cask and created another top-class expression.

From the outset, we at Killowen Distillery have been carefully sourcing whiskeys 12, 11 and 10 years old from different distilleries all across Ireland. We also hunted the globe for the finest casks to complement certain flavour notes in the blends, this time we have gone much closer to home, a mere stone's throw away to a place inextricably linked to Ireland, in all things whiskey and culture - Islay. This small trip has packed a big punch

TASTING NOTES

NOSE: A Gentle sea breeze on the nose, with slight notes of cereal and lemon travel sweets, some ripe pear and fig with a subtle vanilla spice.

PALATE: A combination of apricot and orchard fruits, slight petroleum with rubber on one hand with a marriage of demerara sugar, cinnamon and clove on the other.

FINISH: A soothing sweet peat & smoke balanced with clove & vanilla. long after notes of orange peel and workshop leather.

ALCOHOL
52.5% ABV

SIZE
375ML

RELEASE
398 BOTTLES

BLEND
10 YR OLD BLEND

CHILL FILTRATION
NONE

COLOURING
NONE

KILLOWEN SMALL BATCH IRISH DISTILLERY

The most authentic of distilleries, Killowen Distillery is seated in the heart of the Mourne Mountains in County Down, where horizons are framed by sweeping hills that slope gently into the sea. It is a place where old traditions and the finest natural resources have been blended to produce world class craft spirits.

Killowen Distillery has a cult following that describe it as a 'true distillery.' Seated at the slopes of Knock Shee (the Fairy Mountain), the path to the distillery is the path smugglers took during the Napoleonic Wars to bring French brandy into the North of Ireland and until recently was a perfect hideout for local poitín makers (moonshiners).

